How's Your Liver?

Is the Oriental salutation, knowing that good health cannot exist without a healthy Liver. When the Liver is torpid the Bowels are sluggish and constipated, the food lies in the stomach undigested, poisoning the blood; frequent headache ensues; a feeling of lassitude, despondency and nervousness indicate how the whole system is deranged. Simmons Liver Regulator has been the means of restoring more people to health and happiness by giving them a healthy Liver than any agency known on earth. It acts with extraordinary power and efficacy.

NEVER BEEN DISAPPOINTED.
As a general family remedy for Dyspepsia, Torpid Liver, Constipation, etc., I hardly ever use anything else, and have never been disappointed in the effect produced; it seems to be almost a perfect cure for all diseases of the Stomach and Bowels.

PIANOS.

GAINED FIRST PREMIUM FOR GREATEST merit at the New Orleans Cotton Centennial and WORLE'S Exposition for refined and wonderful power of tone, elegance of design, and superb finish. Only piano endorsed by United States commissioners, from each of the States. Cases finest carved, rosewood finish - finest imported double repeating action—three strings throughout of best patent steel wire—keys best ivory. Our new patent steel tuning device, instead of wood, is the greatest invention ever made in pianos. It consists of stationary STEEL tuning pins that are set in a mold and molten STEEL is run round the pins keeping them solidly in place. A thimble or shell pin is made to exactly fit the stationary pin revolving therein; thus the strings wind round the pins. After the strings are properly stretched the piano can never get out of tune, the rest plank being of STEEL not affected by extremes of climate. This will be appreciated by all musicians in city or country. It will stand twenty years without tuning and is good for 100. No other piano has this improvement.

Great strength and durability is another advantage. In other pianos holes are bored in wooden boards and tuning pins inserted. The pins turn round in this board and cannot stand permanently in tune, and it often cracks, splits, dry s out, becoming utterly, totally and entirely worthless as a musical instrument. Our STEEL tuning device is in no way affected by such casualities, and the sounding board is so constructed that our pianos can never become thin or metallic in tone. They are always in tune and the expense of tunning is saved. This patent alone is worth millions and makes our piano the greatest in the world. Prices are no higher than other pianos. Buying direct from us, the largest manufacturers, you save $100 or $200—dealers' profits. Don't mind the ominous growlings of dealers and agents, who see their chances of selling a poor piano at a big profit of $200—slipping away—pity them.

We guarantee our pianos ten years. 200 styles. We have put our prices at lowest bed-rock for Cash.

A $600 Piano for $259.50 ; a $900 Piano for $297 50 ; a $1200 Piano for $375.50 ; a $1500 Piano for $475.50.

Upright Cabinet Grands, with stool and rubber cover shipped on board cars at S. F., to any part of the United States, Canada or Mexico. Our terms are cash with order. If not as represented money returned. We occasionally have good second-hand pianos, made over at $100 to $300, which we take in part payment for our own. Write or call for catalogue, free.

THE LAST PERFORMANCE.

Brimful of faces was the hall,
The orchestra ablaze with light—
Once more we played before them all,
And passed away into the night.

We held them once another way,
My master, in your merry mood—
Now only this remained to play,
The music of your solitude.

And as your strains re-echoed there
I knew whose shadowy form stood by.
The people praised us—did we care?
We were too lonely, you and I.

Small joy you had of your renown,
My master, or your gift divine!
Why, when your gallant ship went down,
What matter this poor bark of mine?

Now, in the dark, deserted room
Again I hear your music die;
I see your face float through the gloom,
You, broken hearted, even as I!
—May Kendall in Scot's Observer.

THE LIFTED CLOUD.

"Rosa, darling, are you quite happy? If I ever cause you a moment's unhappiness may I wear horns forever, like my fiendish prompter. Father and mother dote upon you; won't you try to love them, pet?"

Thus spoke a young and handsome husband to his beautiful bride during their honeymoon, while on a visit to his parents.

The youthful Rosa folded her hands meekly over her bosom and answered solemnly:

"Wilbur, thy people shall be my people."

So far good, but soon misunderstandings and heartaches, arising from conflicting tastes and habits, overshadowed their little romance.

The happy couple became tired of visiting and, disgusted with boarding, then they went to housekeeping, and having ample means, furnished their house in elegant style. Rosa was satisfied, but thought that one more picture was needed to fill a certain vacancy on the parlor wall, and whenever she expressed a particular wish for anything Wilbur, lover like, was quick to gratify it. One day she was surprised and delighted to find that he had placed one there. She was a woman of cultivated tastes, and was really shocked upon examining it more closely.

It was a representation of the death of Washington—the mourning family with different expressions of grief upon their countenances were grouped around the dying hero; a negro, black as night, peeped from behind the drapery of the bed, while above hovered the goddess of liberty with a sorrowful, half averted face. It was painted in glowing colors in most execrable taste.

Rosa turned away in dismay, and met the smiling eyes of her husband, who had entered unperceived.

"What do you think of it, dear?" he pleasantly inquired.

"It is the most horrible daub I ever saw," she replied, scornfully.

"Daub, Rosa? The painting is somewhat faulty, I admit, but the design is fine, is it not? Observe the figure of Liberty mourning the loss of her champion."

"Indeed," said his wife, mischievously, "I can't decide whether the goddess is weeping over the dead general or over the intensely black negro, who appears to be wiping his nose upon the curtains. I suppose this is one of your jokes, Wilbur, but pray remove this unsightly blot immediately, lest some inopportune visitor happen in and shame us."

"No, Rosa; I intend it shall remain," he replied emphatically; "it is a very impressive picture."

"Very," said she, sarcastically, "nothing can be more impressive than a death scene—it is especially suggestive for the walls of a parlor."

"Rosa!"

"Wilbur!"

"You are a fool," he exclaimed, with rising anger.

"Then I'm not a suitable wife for a gentleman of discriminating tastes and politeness," she retorted with bitterness.

Then she rushed to her own room, threw herself upon a chair, flung her arms half across the table and burst into a storm of hysterical sobs.

All their little variances rose to her mind; how very singular that Wilbur should admire this odious picture; she had often heard his judicious comments upon various works of art; never before had she known him to be so deficient in judgment. Surely there must be some hidden motive for such conduct.

What could it be? The longer she entertained this idea the more convinced she became that there was a mystery attached to it, and a feeling of jealousy was aroused in her heart.

While indulging in the luxury of this good cry a lady friend called and she was obliged to calm herself sufficiently to receive her.

"Dear Mrs Plant," she exclaimed, piteously, "I am very unhappy; Wilbur has called me a fool—and I—I thought that the first year of married life was always the happiest."

"Not always, dear Rosa; it takes years to learn the ins and outs of each others' character, as well as to assimilate in habits and tastes, but don't be disconsolate; love has as many lives as the proverbial cat."

"You can joke, Mrs. Plant, but I feel my heart is breaking."

"Well—well, dear, one of the most insupportable pangs that can afflict the sensitive heart, disenchanting forever the bright illusions of life, is the first doubt of the idol of our affections," replied her friend, laughing; "but seriously, Rosa, I am a veteran and have passed through many a slight skirmish. Come, cheer up: your heart is tender, but not past mending. You must go home with me over the river; I dare say that irate husband of yours has already eaten his way through a whole bill of fare. Depend upon it, if he starves his love for a while, he will not starve his stomach."

Rosa accompanied Mrs. Plant to her handsome home, leaving word for her husband that she would return the next day. While crossing the ferry her friend, noticing her sadness, sought to divert her thoughts from that dreadful epithet of "fool," which she said was ringing in her ears continually.

"Rosa," she said pleasantly, "you must not allow trifles to worry you so. Men are fickle creatures at best. Let me tell you a secret: it may be helpful to you.

"I was not my Charlie's first love; you look incredulous, but he himself told me all about it—when in his 20th year he took a fancy to a pretty girl and visited her frequently, finding her more attractive and interesting upon each visit.

"Of course it was impossible even to hint at a marriage just then, as he was only a clerk upon a very small salary indeed, but Charlie was a wise chap—he determined to wait patiently until he could ask her, especially as he fancied that she would not say no.

"One evening he invited her to accompany him to the fair of the American institute. I dare say she was pleased enough to promenade with a handsome fellow like Charlie, and they uttered a great deal of soft nonsense as they promenaded together through the immense hall."

Rosa smiled, and Mrs. Plant knew that the cloud was lifting.

"You know how 'tis yourself," she said, smiling in return.

"At last," she continued, "the loving pair came to a confectioner's stand, plentifully supplied with a tempting display of goods.

"'I know you are fond of candies,' said Charlie. 'Will you have some.'

"Thereupon she selected whatever suited her taste, and as he took out his pocketbook to pay for them the confectioner remarked that the package being rather bulky he had made two of it.

"'You can carry this one, miss,' he said, handing her quite a large bundle, 'and here is another for your young man. Three dollars. I hope they'll please the lady, and that you'll call again.'

"Rosa now laughed heartily and her friend joined in her mirth.

"Three dollars' worth of candy! Had he heard aright? Fifty cents or even $1 was quite enough to spare. Why, all he had in the world was a $5 greenback, snugly stowed away for the purchase of a new vest which he very much needed.

"Nevertheless, there was no help for it; he must not do without it now, and saying never a word he handed over the money with a sigh.

"Now, Rosa, haven't I reason to bless that young woman for her inordinate liking for candy? Charlie was disenchanted then and there—a girl that could eat her way through a $3 package of sugar was altogether too sweet for him, and altogether too extravagant for a poor man—for she was well aware that he couldn't afford it, but was too selfish or thoughtless to care.

"Charlie didn't visit her again, neither did he die of disappointment, but lived to become a wealthy man, abundantly able to give his second love all the candy she wishes for—so you perceive, Rosa, that a woman must not fancy that there never was, nor never will be another woman in the world so attractive as herself, but she must strive to keep her husband's love if she values it."

"Thank you for telling me this secret. Wilbur shall not be disenchanted if I can help it," said Rosa, "even if he did call me a fool."

So, gaining courage, she tried to banish unpleasant thoughts, and cool her anger by strolling around her friend's beautiful grounds, wondering if he would follow her, or wait until the next day.

Suddenly she saw her husband approaching. He looked as pleasant as if a little bird had sung in his ear. She felt as awkward and nervous as a mouse cornered by a cat; but she smiled, and discreetly remained silent.

"Rosa, forgive me," he said, softly.

Three little words, full of hope and meaning. In the first bitterness of her resentment she had thought that she never could forgive, but womanlike, at the first word of tenderness, the barriers of pride gave way, and she threw herself into his outstretched arms and sobbed out:

"Dear Wilbur, you too have much to forgive. Oh, why did you marry me?"

"Because I loved you, but not half as well as now; let me explain my unpardonable rudeness.

"I had a dearly loved brother, younger than myself, who early developed a genius for painting and drawing in oil; but, alas! he was a confirmed consumptive.

"He devoted the failing energies of his own life to the picture that you so unmercifully ridiculed; it is to me a sacred memento, hallowed by a thousand associations; can you blame me if I could not bear to hear it criticised in terms of levity and disgust? I thought you were very heartless, Rosa."

"Oh, why didn't you tell me of this before?" she inquired. "My remarks must have seemed cutting and cruel. My dear fellow, I have a keen perception of the ridiculous, and my risibilities are easily excited, but I sincerely hope that I am not malicious. Will you forgive me, Wilbur, and show that you do, by allowing the picture to remain where you placed it? I dare say that I have dozens of faults, but I hope time will correct them all—perhaps I shall be perfect some day, but I fear it won't be till I have wings."

"Rosa, we must bear and forbear. You must try to bring out my best points; you will doubtless have a trying time of it, but remember what the immortal poet says, and he is authority:

"Nothing lovelier can be found
In woman, than to study household good,
And good works in her husband to promote."

Large Landowners in Australia.

There are some large landowners in western Australia. Mr. W. H. Barber has 620,000 acres; Mr. J. Bateman upward of 1,200,000, Mr. A. J. Cunningham has upward of 3,600,000, or an area equal to about a tenth of that of England. Mr. W. Mackinnon has upward of 4,000,000, and the Union bank, of Australia, has upwards of 7,800,000.—Montreal Star.

THE LITTLE SOLDIER.

"When I'm big I'll be a soldier,
That's what I will be;
Fight for father, fight for mother,
Over land and sea!"
And before him on the table
Stood in bright array
All his little wooden soldiers,
Ready for the fray.
Then he charged his little cannon,
Singing out with glee,
"When I'm big I'll be a soldier,
That's what I will be!"

By the firelight sat the mother,
Tears were in her heart,
Thinking of the swift time coming
When they two must part.
* * * * * * *
Soon the shadow fell between them,
Soon the years flew by;
He has left his little mother,
Left her—perhaps to die.
All the laughter gone forever,
All the sunshine fled,
Only little mother praying
By his empty bed.

Then there came a dreadful battle,
And upon the plain
Crept the little mother, seeking
Some one 'mid the slain.
But she never found her darling
In the white moon gleam,
For the little cannon firing
Woke her from her dream.
All a dream! He stood beside her,
Singing out with glee,
"When I'm big I'll be a soldier,
That's what I will be!" —Temple Bar.

MRS. CACKLE'S CARPET.

"Carpets, young man, if you please!" said Mrs. Cackle.

"What sort of carpets, ma'am? Moquette? Wilton? We have some very desirable importations of royal velvet"——

"No, Brussels! The cheapest thing you have in Brussels that is any way decent."

Mrs. Cackle sat up on the eighth floor of Meddle & Minturn's great store, her silken flounces rippling around her ample form, the bird of paradise plume on her hat nodding, as if to give extra significance to every word she spoke. Her tan kid gloves, glistening with many buttons, were distended with rings; her lace scarf was fastened with a gaudy diamond set bar, and her plump visage bore the traces of pearl powder and cream of roses, laid on with no sparing hand.

Beside her sat her dear particular friend, Miss Rosina Rufford, who always played the part of Damon to her Pythias, and invariably went shopping with her.

"You see, Rosina," said Mrs. Cackle, who was one of the kind that talk very loud in public places, and indulge in all sorts of details, "it's for a wedding present. Lemuel gave me a check for a hundred dollars, and told me to buy a nice parlor carpet for his cousin, who is to be married next month"——

"Mr. Cackle is always so generous," smiled Miss Rufford, whose new set of false teeth made her smiles very smiling indeed. "A hundred dollars, did you say, dear? That will buy a very nice one, indeed!"

"It would," said Mrs. Cackle, "if I was goose enough to buy it. But I don't mean to. Cackle's only a man, and men never do understand things. What do these out of the wilderness people understand about carpets? And what do they want of the best grade? No, young man, I don't want any of the dollar and a quarter lines. That's too high. Haven't you anything for about a dollar, or ninety cents? It needn't be the very finest quality, I tell you. If I spend fifty dollars on it," turning once more to Miss Rufford, "it'll be all that is necessary, and the extra sum I'll invest in a new satin gown for myself. Ha, ha, ha! Cackle is so very close with his check book, that now and then I have to circumvent him."

"You are so witty, dear," tittered Miss Rufford.

"Nothing under a dollar and twelve cents?" shrilly repeated Mrs. Cackle, as the salesman came back again. "I couldn't think of paying that. Have you no unsalable patterns—nothing that nobody else will buy? The people that I want this carpet for are dreadfully old fashioned, and never will know the difference."

"Oh, my dear, you are too funny!" said Miss Rufford, behind her fan.

"We have one," hesitated the young clerk—"a scarlet ground, with immense olive-green pineapples all over it. We haven't sold a yard off it. Everybody seems afraid of it, and I don't really think"——

"Let me see it," said Mrs. Cackle, promptly.

The porter presently wheeled up a mammoth roll on a hand barrow; the clerk unfolded its hideous, glaring proportions where against a scarlet ground, some monster vegetable entwined itself among impossible scrolls.

"You see, ma'am, it's quite unsalable," said the clerk. "Mr. Meddle was talking of donating it to the reception room of the Blink and Doddle Orphan asylum, at"——

"It is a little peculiar," said Mrs. Cackle, eyeing it through her lorgnette. "Quite—ahem!—what I should call an art carpet."

"Oh, my dear Louisa!" giggled Miss Rufford.

"But very striking," said Mrs. Cackle.

"Quite so, ma'am," said the clerk, coughing spasmodically behind his pocket handkerchief.

"What will you let me have it for?" said Mrs. Cackle, in a business like way.

"Eighty cents, ma'am," said the clerk.

"Say seventy-five," spoke the customer.

"We couldn't, indeed, ma'am. It cost us more than that to import it."

"I'll take thirty yards," said Mrs. Cackle. "Let me see" (calculating on the fat tan colored fingers where the rings bulged out so obtrusively), "naught's a naught, eight times naught's—that will come to twenty-four dollars, won't it, young man?"

"Twenty-four dollars, ma'am!" said the clerk, scarcely able to repress his amazement that any one in their senses should buy so ugly a carpet.

"And that will leave seventy-six out of the check," said Mrs. Cackle, gleefully. "I'll tell you what, Rosina—I can trim the black satin with the very nicest Escurial lace. I suppose these back country barbarians will invite me to the wedding, and I'd like to wear something that will just paralyze them! And my hus-

GEORGE WASHINGTON.

To-day is the anniversary of the birth of George Washington, upon whom Americans have conferred the title of "the Father of His Country." Though time and the inconoclast spirit of the age has done much to deteriorate the almost idolatrous reverence with which the character of Washington was regarded by our forefathers, still he is yet looked upon as the best type of Nature's nobleman that America has ever produced. After leading the armies of the struggling Republic to the achievement of military victories and securing the independence of the United States, he disbanded them and retired to private life. At that time such an event had never occurred in the history of the world. Here was a man the undisputed head of the military power of a nation. The infant Government had yet to be placed on a sure basis; everything was chaotic. The old confederacy of the States had fulfilled its mission and would have to give way to some stronger form of Government. Some favored a Constitutional Monarchy on the English model; others urged a representative Republic. Some were clamorous that Washington should play the role of Cromwell. Especially was this the case in the army. Here was a body of men, who for seven long years had fought against almost overwhelming odds, insufficiently clad and irregularly paid, who if disbanded would be relegated back to a life that their seven years campaigning had rendered them unfit for. And who deserved to govern the country more than they whose valor had saved it? Who so fitting to found a ruling dynasty as the victorious chieftains? Yielding to the wishes of their idolized commander, they retired with him to peaceful avocations. The Republic was formed, and he was twice called by the suffrages of a free and untrammeled people to preside over the destinies of the young Republic as its Chief Magistrate. After which he retired to his Mount Vernon home, beloved and honored, to end the rest of his days. As a soldier and patriot George Washington has never had a peer and his name will be handed down by Americams from generation to generation as the synonym of all that is noble, great and grand.

A VICIOUS SCHEME.

The scheme to build a new Hall of Records and Jail at Santa Rosa is being denounced by tax-payers all over the county, Santa Rosa included. Remonstrances against the scheme are being circulated in every township in the county and are being numerously signed by the farmer, merchant, mechanic and tax-payers of every calling and occupation, and we dare say that when these petitions are presented to the Supervisors at the next meeting of the Board, that body will realize that the people are thoroughly aroused and are determined to call a halt and stop official extravagance at the county seat.

Arbor Day.

ED. INDEX-TRIBUNE: After reading your suggestion concerning the observance of "Arbor Day," I should like to echo your sentiments and say I consider the idea a grand one and the schools ought to observe such a day. But let it not remain an idea but a realization. Let our youth feel that the responsibility of beautifying the school grounds rests with them, and I think ere long instead of that destructive disposition which seems so prevalent among too many of our scholars a disposition of carefulness will be cultivated. And who has not been lifted up and made gentler, if not nobler and better, through the careful observance of flowers. They are themes for our poets and artists, and why not for our scholars? It has been sung long and often, "Make the home attractive for your boys and girls," but let us sing it, "Make the school room and play-grounds attractive for our boys and girls."

COUNTY ITEMS.

An Indian named Jim stabbed and killed a fellow aborigines near Healdsburg last Sunday. The killing was done with a large pocket knife. The murderer is now in jail.

Thursday evening George Tanner, keeper of a saloon near Petaluma, while in town got into a drunken row with Lewis Walz, commonly called "Butch." Tanner was knocked down by "Butch" and his jawbone was broken in three places.

A young man named Clem Harrison narrowly escaped losing his life while crossing Russian River at Geyserville, Wednesday morning. His buggy was overturned and if he had not been an expert swimmer, he would have been drowned, as the current was rapid and the channel full of rocks.—Santa Rosa Democrat.

Petaluma farmers are badly discouaged. There will be no wheat in that section except a small area of volunteer, and it will be so late before the land is dry enough to plow that besides that sufficient for for hay there will be but little other grain. The roads are badly damaged throughout the county and many washouts and landslides are reported.

Dick Lewis was shot and killed by Geo. Bruggy at New Windsor last Monday. The men were farm hands and were intoxicated at the time of the difficulty, which occurred in one of the saloons of that town. The murdered man was about 25 years of age and his slayer 23 years. An inquest was held by a coroner's jury and a verdict of willful and deliberate murder was rendered.

-GLEN ELLEN GOSSIP.-

W. H. Bruning is lying quite ill at the German Hospital in San Francisco.

Kohler & Frohling are still shipping wine in large quantities.

C. J. Poppe and Judge Zane visited the City of Roses last Wednesday.

The rains of last week have raised the creek and laid the dust in grand style.

A bridge is greatly needed here and hopes are entertained that work on the structure will soon begin.

Quite a heavy hail storm fell here last Sunday. Some of the hail stones were as large as—McGinty!

We are glad to state that F. A. Justi, who has been quite ill for some time past, rapidly convalescing.

Simpson & Roberts of Santa Rosa will soon commence the construction of an addition to the Mervyn Hotel.

The Sonoma Valley Railroad pay car was up Saturday distributing coin and gladdening the hearts of its employees.

B. P. Ephlin, who has been lying quite ill at his home in this place, has gone to the hospital at Sacramento for treatment.

John W. Wilson, the well-known minstrel, informs us that about fifteen picnics are spoken for to this place via the Sonoma Valley Railroad this summer.

Dr. Pease of San Francisco, who purchased a farm north of town of the Sonoma County Land and Improvment Company, is now planting an olive orchard thereon.

We learn that some parties here are loud in their denunciation of bnilding a new school house in this district. The reasons therefor are a mystery, but we presume they have no children to educate and believe more in the almighty dollar than in the cause of education.

OLD TIMER.

Poison Oak.

The following extract taken from a letter written by Mr. E. A. Bell, fully explains itself:

While surveying land in 1883 I accidentally handled poison oak vine, and in less than three hours (the eruption resulting from such contact begins in ten days) my face was swoolen and disfigured and my hands and arms seriously affected. I immediately commenced taking Swift's Specific (S. S. S.), and after taking three large bottles I found all signs of the breaking out entirely removed. I was lead to suspect its return at the same time next year, but it did not, nor has there been any indication of its return since.

My little boy, eight years old, was affected with the same poison in 1884. After taking several bottles of Swift's Specific (S. S. S.) the eruptions entirely disappeared. A very light form of the same eruption returned during the next spring, but we then resumed the S. S. S., and having taken enough during that season to make the cure permanent, he has not since had any return of the disease. Swift's Specific certainly effected thorough cures in both these cases, and I regard it as a most effective remedy for all such diseases.

Sufferers

FROM Stomach and Liver derangements—Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Sick-Headache, and Constipation—find a safe and certain relief in Ayer's Pills. In all cases where a cathartic is needed, these Pills are recommended by leading physicians.

Dr. T. E. Hastings, of Baltimore, says: "Ayer's Pills are the best cathartic and aperient within the reach of my profession."

Dr. John W. Brown, of Oceana, W. Va., writes: "I have prescribed Ayer's Pills in my practice, and find them excellent. I urge their general use in families."

"For a number of years I was afflicted with biliousness which almost destroyed my health. I tried various remedies, but nothing afforded me any relief until I began to take Ayer's Pills."—G. S. Wanderlich, Scranton, Pa.

"I have used Ayer's Pills for the past thirty years, and am satisfied I should not be alive to-day if it had not been for them. They cured me of dyspepsia when all other remedies failed, and their occasional use has kept me in a healthy condition ever since."—T. P. Brown, Chester, Pa.

"Having been subject, for years, to constipation, without being able to find much relief, I at last tried Ayer's Pills, and deem it both a duty and a pleasure to testify that I have derived great benefit from their use. For over two years past I have taken one of these Pills every night before retiring. I would not willingly be without them."—G. W. Bowman, 26 East Main st., Carlisle, Pa.

"Ayer's Pills have been used in my family upwards of twenty years, and have completely verified all that is claimed for them. In attacks of piles, from which I suffered many years, they afforded me greater relief than any medicine I ever tried."—Thomas F. Adams, Holly Springs, Texas.

Poor Humanity.

The common lot of one is sorrow say—a east—the pessimists, they would look at the worst side. Certainly what would otherwise be a bright existence, is often shade owed by some ailment that overhangs it like a pall, obscuring perpetually the radiance that else would light the path. Such an ailment, and a very common one, is nervousness, or in other words, weakness of the nervous system, a condition only irremediable where in efficient or improper means are taken to relieve it. The concurrent experience of nervous people who have persistently used Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is, that it conquers entirely supersensitiveness of the nerves, as well as diseases—so called—which are invited and sustained by their chronic weakness. As the nerves gain stamina from the great tonic the trouble disappears. Use Bitters for malaria, rheumatism, biliousness and kidney troubles.

A. Harrison, the enterprising owner of the Mervyn Hotel, Glen Ellen, will erect an addition to that popular resort as soon as the weather permits. Messrs. Simpson & Roberts of Santa Rosa have contracted to do the work. The Mervyn since becoming the property of Mr. Harrison has been greatly improved and is now one of the best appointed hotels and summering resorts in Sonoma Valley.

Encourage your home paper, and help to build it up; for the culture, intelligence and public sentiment of a city is often guaged by the character of a paper it supports. Every place of importance must have the daily aid of the press—a journal that will publish to the world its advantages, its life, its wares, its goods, its manufactories; and reflects like a mirror the daily acts, progress and intentions of its people. A conservative and progressive newspaper is of more real benefit towards advertising, stimulating and building up a city than any other one agency or enterprise it can possess.—Ex.

Narrow Escape from Drowning.

It is only a few weeks ago that we were called upon to record the painful drowning of T. J. Sullivan at Glen Ellen. Last Sunday a similar catastrophe was averted by the almost miraculous escape of T. F. Mulhall of the Glen Ellen butcher shop. He attempted to ford Sonoma creek near the identical spot where Mr. Sullivan was washed away and drowned. Mulhall was on horse back and essayed to cross the creek just above the Mervyn Hotel. Saturday night's storm had made the stream a swift and raging torrent and horse and rider were swept down stream. Mulhall was soon unhorsed by the plunging animal and was rapidly borne away by the rushing waters. Being an expert swimmer and a man of rare presence of mind he kept the middle of the creek until a favorable opportunity presented itself when he struck out diagonally across the stream and was carried to the shore by the force of the current a considerable distance below the fording place. He received several cuts and bruises by coming in contact with drift wood and was confined to his bed a couple of days, but at present writing is none the worse for his adventure. The horse also succeeded in reaching terra firma.

Reduction in Insurance Rates.

Last year the Pacific Insurance Union, embracing all the companies doing business on this coast, raised the rates of insurance in Sonoma 50 per cent. At a meeting of the Executive Committee held on the 13th inst., it was decided by the Union to take off the 50 per cent raise and restore the old rate, and local agents have been notified to that effect. In a circular letter the Insurance Union says the citizens of Sonoma have intelligently recognized the necessity of providing means for protecting their community from loss by conflagration and that is why the reduction is made. This is a high compliment to the efficiency of the Sonoma Fire Department and is a rebuke to those croakers and fault-finders who have maintained right along that the Sonoma water supply was no good and that the city's money had been thrown away by the City Trustees in purchasing fire apparatus.

Here to Stay.

A report has been started in this community by a mischievous and irresponsible person that the editor and proprietor of the INDEX-TRIBUNE contemplates removing to Merced to manage the estate of the late Robert J. Steele. There is not an atom of truth in the report. In the first place Mr. Steele left a widow fully competent to manage the affairs of the estate. In the second place we are in no wise interested in the same, not being a blood relative, and thirdly we have our hands full in minding our own business, which is more than we can say of the individual who has seen fit to circulate a report, which he knew was false, with a sinister motive in view. We are here to stay. Here it is we expect to live and here it is we expect to die and be buried. We have founded a home and a fair paying business in Sonoma, thanks to our many kind friends and patrons in Sonoma Valley who appreciate in the INDEX-TRIBUNE a fearless, clean and respectable home paper ever ready to do battle for the interests of its particular section as against the whole world. We are here to stay and don't you forget it.

The Week's Storm.

The storm which set in Saturday afternoon, after a cessation of ten days, bids fair to continue. Following has been the rainfall the past week as recorded by Robert Hall of this place:

Day.	Inches.
Sunday	1 57
Monday	0.57
Tuesday	1.52
Wednesday	0.90
Thursday	1.92
Total for storm	5.58

The precipitation for the season has been 43.59 inches as against 15.87 inches for same period last year.

The Fire Bell.

Robert Poppe, representing the Sonoma Fire Department, visited San Francisco last Monday and contracted with W. T. Garratt & Co. for the much-needed fire bell. The bell is to be of first class bell-metal, such as is used on locomotives, and will weigh when finished 450 pounds and will cost about $135. Mr. Poppe has been quite successful in this matter, securing the very best rates and the name of the firm is sufficient guarantee of its quality. It is expected to be completed about the middle of next week.

Let quality, not quantity, be the test of a medicine. Ayer's Sarsaparilla is the concentrated extract of the best and purest ingredients. Medical men everywhere recommend it as the most economical blood medicine in the market.

THE MASQUERADE BALL

Given by the Native Daughters a Dazzling Affair.

Union Hall Filled to Overflowing With Merry Masquers and Spectators.

Last Friday evening there gathered from far and wide to trip the light fantastic at Union Hall such a congregation as Sonoma has not witnessed for some time. The hall was beautifully decorated by the young lady members of Juanita Parlor, No. 20, N. D. G. W., who had spared no pains to make the affair a success. A feature of the decoration was several cages of canary birds. These warbled sweet notes during the evening.

By 9 P. M. the seating capacity of the hall was comfortably filled with spectators, and still they came. At half-past nine the shrill whistle of the floor manager, James Martin, announced the grand march, in which about thirty couple participated. The floor was soon covered with a very diversified collection of costumes. Under the management of Mr. Martin, the programme of the evening was carried out without a jar. The music furnished by Park's orchestra of Santa Rosa was excellent.

Much amusement was derived by the spectators in watching the antics of the merry masquers, especially the "Tramp" (T. Ellis), the old grandma (W. E. Thomas) and the old lady (Mrs. Engelbert). Another center of attraction was the aristocratic "Jew," who with an unmeasurable amount of nerve intruded on every tete-a-tete, importuning those present by gesture not to lose the opportunity of purchasing a beautiful parasol for less than cost. Many of the costumes were both handsome and rich.

The floor was crowded from the call for the first dance and remained so throughout the entire evening. At 11:30 P. M. the signal for unmasking was given and many were the Oh's! and Ah's! and "I told you so's," that followed. C. W. Engelbert, "the Jew," received the prize for gentleman's best sustained character, a plush photograph album. Mrs. C. W. Engelbert, "the Old Lady," received the prize for lady's best sustained character, a satin fan. The following were the list of judges who awarded the masquers prizes, which was done immediately after unmasking: S. A. Ringstrom, Miss M. J. McMahan, Mrs. P. A. Pioda and E. H. Pauli. Miss May Monahan received the spectator's prize, a glass lemonade set.

At three o'clock a medly was called, ending with a few bars from "Home, Sweet Home," after which the merry dancers hied themselves homeward, all declaring it to be a most complete success, the best thing of the kind that has been given in Sonoma for a long time. From a financial standpoint it was decidedly a success, which shows the Native Daughters know how to manage an affair of this kind.

The following is a list of the masqers and their costumes:

Washington," Emma Ludeman; song, "Mount Vernon Bells," Prof. Watson's room; oration, "Washington's Mother," Florence Campbell.

Death of Jeremiah Clarke.

Jeremiah Clarke, at one time a resident of this valley, died in San Francisco on Tuesday night. Deceased at one time was one of the shrewdest land lawyers in this State, but for a number of years he had been afflicted with partial paralysis of the brain, and unable to attend to business. He was at one time the owner of 770 acres of land near this place, but a few years ago the tract was disposed of to the El Verano Company, who paid $75,000 for the same—$10,000 down the balance remaining on a mortgage.

SONOMA INDEX - TRIBUNE.

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 22, 1890.

hand will never be any the wiser. Do you look, Rosina!" nudging her companion. "What a beautiful moquette that tall young lady in the black silk suit is choosing! I've got to have something new in my reception room next year. I wish I could afford"——

"The address, ma'am, please!" said the clerk, pencil and pad in hand.

Mrs. Cackle hesitated.

"Well, I don't know," said she. "I suppose it had better be sent at once, with our card, to the bride. Give me the paper, young man, if you please. I'll write it down, so that there can't possibly be any mistake.

"I tell you, Rosina," she added, as she sat in the elevator, being lowered down to the level of the surface world, "I wish I knew who that elegant young lady was who was looking at the white-and-pearl moquette carpet! I'd like to ask her for the pattern of that shoulder cape. I'm sure it must have come direct from Paris."

"Well, my dear," said Mr. Cackle, as he sat down to the soup and roast beef of the plentiful table at home, "what sort of a parlor carpet did you buy for cousin Erminie?"

"Oh, a beauty!" said Mrs. Cackle, spreading out her napkin to protect her dress.

"Did you use all my check?"

"Yes, every dollar of it," answered Mrs. Cackle, salving her conscience with the recollection of the black satin and the Escurial lace, which were already in the dressmaker's hands.

"I hope they'll be pleased," said Mr. Cackle. "It's very essential to make a favorable impression, I beg you to remember, my dear, on these relations, for the young man Erminie is to marry is a relative of the head of our firm, and could, I have no doubt, recommend me for advancement."

"Why didn't you tell me all this before?" said Mrs. Cackle, with a pang of tardy remorse. "But how on earth did your country cousin come across such a good match?"

"Oh, I don't know. I believe he came out to Glassybrook fishing or gunning or something. Minnie's very pretty, they tell me."

"Humph!" said Mrs. Cackle. "Red cheeks and black eyes, and hair cut in a pointed bang right down to the top of the nose—I know what these rustic beauties are!"

The time for the wedding arrived.

The Cackles, in their holiday attire, traveled down to Glassybrook, and there, on the drawing room floor of an elegant semi-Italian villa, Mrs. Cackle recognized the very white and pearl moquette carpet that she had so coveted at Meddle & Minturn's. And the bride—already in her white silk and floating veil, to whom she was introduced as Miss Erminie Brooks, soon to become Mrs. Howard Crespigny—was none other than the elegant young lady in the Paris wrap and the perfectly fitting gloves and boots who had heard every detail of the bargain for the unsalable carpet!

If the cracks in the floor underneath the moquette colors could but have opened and swallowed Mrs. Cackle up at that moment, what an indescribable relief it would have been!

"I have to thank you, Mr. Cackle, for your present," said Erminie, in her slow, queenly way; and her smile was a riddle.

"I hope you liked it," said honest Mr. Cackle, looking down at the rose-and-pearl shades of the soft pile, that closed around his foot like forest moss. "It certainly is a pretty pattern."

Mrs. Cackle shot an imploring glance at the bride—a glance that said, plainer than words, "Don't betray me!"—and the bride began to talk with somebody else about something else.

She did not enjoy the black satin dress with the Escurial trimmings so much as she had expected. The Paris costumes of the "back country cousins" left her far in the shade.

"I'll never go to that dowdy dressmaker again," said she, in a rage.

But she did, for Miss Biggs was cheap, and Mrs. Cackle was economical. On the very first call she made there after her trip to Glassybrook, however, she gave a great start and stared around her like one who beholds a ghost.

"My goodness me!" exclaimed she. "Where did you get that carpet?"

"Isn't it nice?" said Miss Biggs, beaming through her eyeglasses. "It was a present from Mrs. Howard Crespigny. Her mother was once a customer of mine. Wasn't it thoughtful of her?"

Mrs. Cackle made a little noise as if she was swallowing something, and said yes, she thought it was.

Mrs. Howard Crespigny was the bride. The carpet was her own wedding gift—the identical "unsalable pattern." And Mr. Cackle never received promotion in the firm of Harriman & Crespigny on the recommendation of his new relation-in-law.

Mr. Cackle thought it very strange; Mrs. Cackle didn't.—Helen Forrest Graves in Philadelphia Saturday Night.

A Wonderful Lily.

One sometimes hears of the wonderful productiveness of the golden lily—Lilium Auratum, Lindley. Some years ago an instance was recorded of one stalk, under cultivation, bearing no less than thirty-five flowers. This happened at Pitlour, in Fifeshire, Scotland, in 1886. The record is quite beaten by a plant in the garden of a foreign resident at Karuizawa, which is now bearing no fewer than fifty-seven flowers on one stalk. The stalk itself is six feet high, and toward the upper end it flattens out, the buds hanging like keys on a board. The upper extremity is cleft. Room is thus allowed for the remarkable luxuriance of flowering just described. In The Far East of Sept. 16, 1872, it is stated: "This summer there grew in the garden of Mr. G. C. Pearson, on the Bluff (No. 111), Yokohama, two stems from one bulb. One was a fair specimen of the ordinary flowering of the plant, having eighteen flowers upon it; but the other, upon a broad, flat stem, about an inch and a half in width, but thin as a lath, had no less than sixty-three buds, of which fifty-two were in flower at one time."—Japan Weekly Mail.

Is Consumption Curable?

Read the following: Mr. C. H. Morris, Newark Ark., says: "Was down with Abscess of Lungs, and friends and physicians pronounced me an Incurable Consumptive. Began taking Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption; am now on my third bottle, and am able to oversee the work on my farm. It is the finest medicine ever made." Jesse Middlewart, Decatur, Ohio, says: "Had it not been for Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption I would have died of Lung Troubles. Was given up by doctors. Am now in best of health." Try it. A Sound Legal Opinion

E. Bainbridge Munday Esq., County Att'y., Clay Co., Texas, says: "Have used Electric with most happy results. My brother was also very low with Malarial Fever and Jaundice, but was cured by timely use of this medicine. Am satisfied Electric Bitters saved his life." Mr. D. I. Wilcoxson, of Horse Cave, Ky., adds a like testimony, saying: He positively believes he would have died, had it not been for Electric Bitters. This great remedy will ward off, as well as cure all Malarial Diseases, and for all Kidney, Liver and Stomach Disorders stands unequaled. Price 50 cts. and $1 at E. Wegner's drug store.

The Occidental Hotel is fast becoming a popular place of resort.

A HORSE WHO CAN TALK!

Everybody has heard of a "horse laugh" but who has ever seen an equine gifted with the power of speech? Such an animal would be pronounced a miracle; but so would the telegraph and the telephone a hundred years ago. Why, even very recently a cure for consumption, which is universally acknowledged to be scrofula affecting the lungs, would have been looked upon as miraculous, but now people are beginning to realize that the disease is not incurable. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will cure it, if taken in time and given a fair trial. This world-renowned remedy will not make new lungs, but it will restore diseased ones to a healthy state when other means have failed. Thousands gratefully testify to this. It is the most potent tonic, or strength restorer, alterative, or blood-cleanser and nutritive, or flesh-builder, known to medical science. For Weak Lungs, Spitting of Blood, Bronchitis, Asthma, Catarrh in the Head, and all Lingering Coughs, it is an unequaled remedy. In derangements of the stomach, liver and bowels, as Indigestion, or Dyspepsia, Biliousness, or "Liver Complaint," Chronic Diarrhea, and kindred ailments, it is a sovereign remedy.

GUARANTEED. "Golden Medical Discovery" is the only medicine of its class, sold by druggists, under a printed guarantee, from the manufacturers, that it will benefit or cure in every case of disease for which it is recommended, or money paid for it will be promptly refunded.

IF YOU WISH A GOOD REVOLVER PURCHASE ONE OF SMITH & WESSON'S

Finest small arms ever manufactured and the first choice of all experts. In calibres 32, 38 and 44-100. Single or double action, Safety Hammerless and Target models. Best quality wrought steel, carefully inspected for workmanship and stock. Unrivaled for finish, durability and accuracy. Do not be deceived by cheap malleable iron imitations often sold for the genuine article. They are unreliable and dangerous. The SMITH & WESSON REVOLVERS are stamped upon the barrels with firm's name, address and dates of patents, and are guaranteed perfect. Insist upon having them, and if your dealer cannot supply you, an order sent to address below will receive prompt attention. Descriptive catalogue and prices upon application.

WHAT IS GOING ON FOR MANY MILES AROUND IN ALL UNCONCEIVED TO THIS EYE, AYE MORE

One of the BEST Telescopes in the world. Our facilities are unequaled, and to introduce our superior goods we will send FREE to ONE PERSON in each locality, as above. Only those who write to us at once can make sure of the chance. All you have to do in return is to show our goods to those who call—your neighbors and those around you. The beginning of this advertisement shows the small end of the telescope. The following cut gives the appearance of it reduced to about the fiftieth part of its bulk. It is a grand, double size telescope, as large as is easy to carry. We will also show you how you can make from $8 to $10 a day at least, from the start, without experience. Better write at once. We pay all express charges. Address H. HALLETT & CO., Box 880, PORTLAND, MAINE.

Stanley Is Back

And Has Electrified the World

By the announcement of his safe return to civilization His adventures and discoveries have been Grand, Wonderful, Marvelous. The world has seen nothing like them before. His thrilling adventures, marvelous discoveries, during exploits astounding privations, wonderful trip across the Dark Continent, How He Found Emin Bey—Everything will be included, from his first entrance into Africa to the present time. Everybody wants the new Genuine Stanley Book!

From Stanley's own writings and dispatches. Over 400 of the grandest and most wonderful New Engravings and Colored Plates ever seen in a book of travels It has been eagerly awaited, and will be more sought after, making more money for the agent and make it easier than any book issued for the past Fifty Years.

CAUTION! Old and unreliable accounts of Stanley's travels are being published. Do not be deceived by old books, rehashes and battered plates We announce this to protect our agents and the public against the numerous worthless so-called Stanley Books, all of which are simply old books that have been in use for years, and are now being offered as new books, with a few pages of new matter added.
